"STAND AGAINST CLIMATE CHANGE. STAND FOR HUMANITY."

In the Philippines and Asia-Pacific region, climate change has already ushered unprecedented disasters. It is time to reduce our disaster risks and to climate-proof our communities, our livelihoods, and our development gains and goals.

As world leaders gather in Copenhagen to address the climate challenge, Senator Loren Legarda calls on everyone to help protect our people and our environment as she seeks means to build the resilience of nations and communities against disasters and climate change.

Championing environmental protection, disaster risk reduction and climate change adaptation in the Philippines, in the Asia and the Pacific region and beyond.

- Crafting relevant laws to protect the environment, reduce risks to disasters and adapt better to climate change
- Strengthening the oversight function of the legislature for effective implementation of environmental laws
- Leading nationwide campaigns to inform, to educate, and to inspire the youth to act and to care for the environment
- Governing the entire Philippines

WHEELS OF HOPE 'Mobility our best Yule gift ever'

By Tina S. Santos

CHRISTMAS CAME EARLY FOR
52-year-old Jose Granadilla this year.

Granadilla, a diabetic whose one leg was amputated two years ago, was among the 1,000 disabled persons who received wheelchairs from the Philappam, a medical fraternity of the University of the Philippines College of Medicine.

"I wasn't expecting I would get a wheelchair. This is the best Christmas gift yet," said Granadilla of Sta. Rita, Manila.

Aided by crutches and accompanied by a friend, Granadilla was taking a stroll along the seawall area in Forta Boulevard when they donated upon a group of wheelchair-bound people converging at high tide.

At the beach, where the banding of wheelchairs is 200 wheelchair recipients chosen by the Manila government was held recently.

"I feel so blessed," a man said Granadilla said. "I can't believe the crutches I just received from a neighbor."

Engagement

The wheelchair distribution program was part of the fraternity's "Empowerment Through Mobility" (ETM) campaign which aims to help poor Filipino motorists in the need of wheelchairs who wish to improve their lives despite their physical disabilities.

The event began with "Wheel in the Hope," an advocacy walk organized by the project's past beneficiaries, including Mayor Alfredo Lim, from Marikina City in South Luzon.

According to Jose Michael Baking, head of this year's ETM project which is now on its third year, the walk was aimed at raising awareness on the plight of the differently-abled poor.

"This was also meant to encourage them and highlight the problems they can lead now provided with adequate rehabilitative assistance," Baking added.

The fraternity, which has over a thousand members here and abroad, has linked up with the Free Wheelchair Mission (FWM), a nonprofit Christian organization in the United States that distributes free wheelchairs to poor people with disabilities in other countries.

Donations

The FWM has already wheeled in hope, so to speak, in hundreds of thousands worldwide, funded mostly through generous donations from the private sector, particularly the Phil. Institutional. Monetary donations were also received from other partner organizations, most notably the Manila government.

To date, the fraternity group has facilitated the distribution of 1,000 wheelchairs to different hospitals, health centers and local government units throughout the country since the project started in 2007.

These days, in between their studies and other responsibilities, Phil brothers have been collecting hundreds of wheelchairs that will be distributed free to a new set of beneficiaries.

the quality of life and decrease in the burden of disease in vulnerable and underserved individuals," added John Thompson, director of the project's marketing group. "After receiving the wheelchairs, beneficiaries expressed that the equipment helped their dignity and allowed with the gift of mobility."

Positive changes

Case changed and Juan Capatzen both adjust to the positive changes the wheelchair donation has brought to the lives of these children.

Ironically too, Rocky, 21, has reached puberty, while Capatzen's situation will ease. But little was diagnosed with scoliosis that had affected his spine.

The mothers said their children passed renewed hope and vigor after they were gifted with the wheelchairs last year.

Sharon, Rocky's mother, said, "When I take him to parks and malls and he really enjoys it."

Capatzen said she was very happy for her son, who was chosen as one of the beneficiaries.

"I used to worry him to not leave school, stay apart from the fact that it has become more convenient for him as that is happened to be going to play and interact with the other kids," she said of the youngest of her four children.

Gratwell said that with his new wheelchair, he is inspired to look for a job that would enable him to support himself.

The former pickup driver said that ever since he's had his leg, he had been dependent on his sibling for transportation. "And with my new wheelchair, I can even go anywhere, at least even further than before," he said, smiling, adding that he feels more confident and comfortable in general in crowded places.

"Talking with our law adviser gave me the first of talking because I could have any number of something, so I avoided areas where there were a lot of people. But not anymore," Gratwell said.

Fire destroys P3-M worth of stocks in QC hardware store

By John M. Aurelio

BILLIONS OF PAGES worth of computer supplies were damaged in an hour-long fire that hit a computer store before dawn yesterday in Quezon City.

No one was injured in the blaze that raged in the QC Hardware Center and Construction Supply along Tandang Sora Avenue at San Roque Village.

JPFC Arnes Brando of the Quezon City fire department said the fire began at around 2:47 a.m. at the two-story building housing the hardware store and a few residential units.

Firefighters rushed to the scene in the hours before the New Year dawned, but it was completely gutted by around 3:30 a.m.

Two bystanders were, however, injured—Ramon Geronimo, who sustained a cut on his head, and Tera Geronimo, who had a laceration on her left foot.

An initial investigation showed that the building was owned by Abduro Geronimo. The blaze reportedly started in the store located inside Geronimo's residence.

Initial investigation estimated the damage at P5 million. While they have yet to determine the cause of the fire, investigators are looking at a short circuit in the building's wiring system as one of the possible causes of the blaze.

No other houses or nearby structures were affected.

The Council is free for Taguig residents, but for non-Taguig residents working in the city, there is an annual fee of P750.

Taguig Mayor Freddie R. Taguig said the Council is one way of building a strong partnership with the private sector to help with its economic social responsibility programs.

"The Council is the perfect way to encourage the business community to take part in the social development of the city.

This way, the city government continues to improve its services to the people despite our low tax rate," Taguig said.

Taguig has one of the lowest business taxes imposed by any local government in the country today.

The World Bank has cited the city as the best place to do business in the Philippines.

Poor nations slam EU climate fund pledge

COPENHAGEN—DEVELOPING NATIONS AT THE UN climate conference rejected an “insufficient” offer Friday an EU pledge of 7.2 billion euros ($9.6 billion) to help them tackle global warming.

As Copenhagen leaders for the second day, poor nations expressed their frustration with the EU pledge, which they said was far from enough to help them combat climate change. The EU pledge was seen as a “disappointment” for the 120 developing nations at the conference, which ended on Friday with a new deal on carbon emissions. The EU pledge was seen as a “disappointment” for the 120 developing nations at the conference, which ended on Friday with a new deal on carbon emissions. Patriots face Barracudas in Brunei today

By Jonathan R. Papp

MANILA—THE PHILIPPINE PATRIOTS SET the record for lowest-scoring the final basketball in the Asian Basketball League to play at the Araneta Coliseum Stadium.

But coach Louie Alano said the players' performance will be the best for what his Patriots did with the Philippine-based Barracudas for the first time in 4 p.m.

"The problem with the Barracudas is they never knew our rules and offense and defense," said Alano. "So it's important for our players to learn it."

The Patriots, who lead the division tournament with a 7-3 record, aim to finish their winning streak to secure better tournament spots. Scottie Thompson and Michael Pineda are the team's leading scorers, with Thompson leading at 18 points.

The defensive specialist Wally Soto will skip the road game to suit up for the Patriots the Patriots in their championship showdown against the San Francisco 49ers in the Philippine Basketball Association tonight.

The first encounter between the Patriots and the Barracudas was originally scheduled on Oct. 24, but was postponed due to Typhoon Goni.

American Reggie Irem and Michael Pineda joined the Barracudas, who are also coached by three former NBA players and coached by Philippine basketball coach.

Love for nature pays dividends for Cravings

By Tina & Leo Sison

CRAVINGS RESTAURANTS ARE BEING WELLED TO IN GROWING BY THE ENVIRONMENT WHILE keeping it safe and healthy. Cravings would also want to take valuable position from The Cravings Group, a force in the industry sector that is providing Cravings group.

Source: P Cravings, founder of the 12-year-old chain that includes restaurants, coffee shops, culinary school and hotel, told the business that the group's vision is to help Malaya's Cravings group directly linked to people.

The restaurants, for example, carry from the side of Malaya's water, such as rice, coffee, bottles and plastic. In view of this, Cravings has been so far from many months, the group also implemented an Earth Week at lunch during which lights and air conditioning are in the respective offices are turned off. It has long been using more efficient lighting systems in its restaurants and offices.

The group has also implemented a no-paper policy and has by the national sources of reduce, reuse and recycle. It keeps water use to a minimum, and closely monitors its use of electricity.

Reducing non-biodegradable waste is another goal to help the environment. In the food and beverage industry, such as plastic bottles, plastic cups and glasses from restaurants, disposable, non-recycled paper bottles, aerosols and household items such as napkins. Every morning, materials such as napkins and glasses that are left in bags and packaging materials.

As for biodegradable waste that the Cravings restaurant or kitchen, Cravings products, which are food is still in long-term, while non-biodegradable is collected and sent to the Cravings group's Cravings Eco-Center where the waste is converted into compost. A heavy-duty shredder was also installed at the center to break down a large volume of leaves and organic to prepare for composting.

The company, in turn, follows the soil that produces some of the vegetables Cravings needs to support its restaurant operations.

At the same time, being aware of the group's growing operation, thus leading to better use.

Cravings CEO Philadel G. Tibaldi, however, says that the group's vision is to help Malaya's water, such as rice, coffee, bottles and plastic. In view of this, Cravings has been so far from many months, the group also implemented an Earth Week at lunch during which lights and air conditioning are in the respective offices are turned off. It has long been using more efficient lighting systems in its restaurants and offices.

Cravings shared that the Cravings Group shared on the road to a sustainable future in 2008 with the group of the Biological Solid Waste has that it followed "sustainable, socially and economically."

From day-to-day management, the group became more explicit about its environmental programs, which did not go unnoticed.

The Philippine Chapter of Cravings and Industry, for instance, organized the Cravings Eco-Center in Cravings Award to the Cravings Group and its Cravings Eco-Center, in recognition of their "innovative and sustainable environmental programs and practices."

The Cravings Group was also qualified as a "Sustainable United States" during the 2008 from the Philippine Department of Environment and Natural Resources by virtue of the Philippine Certificate granted by the Philippine government through the Environmental Protection and Public Management Department.

The 18-year-old Cravings said, however, that the new participants about environmental programs are because of the amount and energy, too, but because the belief that everyone has to do his or her share to conserve nature and build the mostly much of climate change.

It is a lesson that is not good business sense, too.

Of course, as has been reported, Emma did not broadcast a message last Dec. 8. Amid heavy, miserable-sitting snow, father experienced no Emma's encounter with the Virgin, she declined to reveal the contents of the new message she had received.

Before she became a worldwide phenomenon, Brown was a single widow from Cebuano City who worked abroad in Singapore, then Canada, as a domestic helper to support her three children. Her last blood tie to Manila had organized a pilgrimage to the Father Shrine in Hightstown, New York, in 1991, and made her famous.

While praying at the shrine, Emma felt differently and several weeks later claimed to have started to see the Virgin. Shortly people became drawn to her, and soon, the La Pasa Project group was formed by her supporters.

GO ORIGINAL! GET YOUR FREE MUSIC DOWNLOADS SAFELY

AND ROCK THE ONLINE MUSIC SCENE-LEGITIMATELY

ONLINE MUSIC SERVICES ARE one of the defining Web trends of the decade. More people are now spending online time listening to music or downloading it from Internet sites. It's also easier to find music online than to browse for CDs in the music stores.

The digital age has changed our music buying habits, and this is something that the record industry is still trying to cope with.

"It has made it easier for the consumer to get music, with just one click of a button on the Web, at the privacy of their homes, compared to going to a mall and getting the physical CD in a music store," said Jim Balaban of Warner Music.

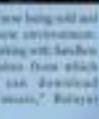

Jim Balaban of Warner Music: "Internet has changed the way people consume and buy music."

"The Internet is the main source of music now, and this has greatly changed the way people consume and buy music," he added.

To cope with that trend, many record labels and music download services now offer free downloads, and many are now one of the most popular problems facing digital artists.

"Increasingly there is iTunes, a popular online music store, as well as other legal sites that sell music, and their whole music is now being sold and consumed in the new environment. Luckily we are now working with SandBox and other music sites from which consumers can download legitimate music," Balaban explained.

For digital artists, finding an outlet with the benefits of downloading music from the Internet.

The Internet provides direct access to the widest range of music from all over the world—from obscure, hard-to-find favorites to current hits, music on the Web is there for the taking.

It also has led one to search and download music. Once you have found and made your list of songs, just click "Save" and you're on your way to enjoying your music anytime on your mobile phone.

There's no need either to buy a whole CD when all you want is just one or two tracks. You can listen before downloading your individual song choices.

A word of warning, though. Certain songs offered on the Internet are often illegal, with doubtful origins. Downloading from there often is a copyright infringement, a form of music piracy.

No to Piracy

Many download music illegally for many reasons, not realizing that it deprives the artist of his right to earn from his work, and the record company of its right to earn from its investment.

It has been found that 75% of music consumers do not pay for their music. As a result, they have been taken over by record companies that sell pirated music, downloadable on a per-song or per-album basis, cheaper than downloading from legal sources.

Added to this is the fact that many music piracy is in the Philippines, Balaban explained. "Just by talking to 15 people in the streets, and I found 10 said they got their music online through illegal sites that offer free music downloads.

"There is definitely a huge loss in artist royalties due to music piracy, and that is very unfair. The record industry is active in its fight against piracy. We are working closely with the record music board and the IFPI (International Federation of the Phonograph Industry) to resolve this problem. The government should impose either penalties for violation," he added.

Free, unlimited original music only from SMART Bro

Knowing the consumer is used to affordable legitimate music, SMART Bro offers free unlimited original music to its subscribers.

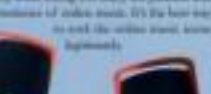

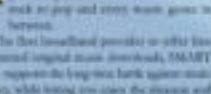

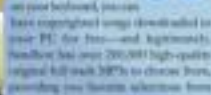

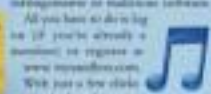

SMART Bro subscribers can enjoy free downloads of original music that is better and clearer in quality, and safe from legal infringement or malicious software.

All you have to do is log on if you're already a member, or register at www.smartbro.com.

With just a few clicks on your keyboard, you can have copyrighted songs downloaded to your PC, for free—and legitimately. SandBox has over 200,000 high-quality original full-track MP3s to choose from, providing you limitless selections from rock to pop and every music genre in between.

The best broadband provider to offer free unlimited original music downloads, SMART Bro, supports the largest music library, music piracy, while letting you enjoy the pleasure and convenience of online music. It's the best way to rock the online music scene legitimately.

Stay safe. Download only from sites that offer original music.

Mother of all cruise ships

Dwarfing the Titanic by five times, Oasis of the Seas is a lifestyle, shopping, travel and entertainment complex on the high seas

THE OASIS of the Seas, above, will be joined by a sister ship, the equally huge Allure of the Seas in November 2010.

Text and photos by Alan F. Vargas

HAD THE TITANIC managed to stay afloat to this day, chances are it would look like a modest tugboat next to the gleaming floating city that is the Oasis of the Seas. Five times bigger than the ill-fated luxury liner and nearly four football fields long, Oasis dwarfs everything next to it, including its older sister Freedom of the Seas, the second biggest ship of its kind, by almost 40 percent.

Nearly 60 years in the luxury cruise business, Royal Caribbean International (RCI) based on its rich heritage in build not only the biggest, but arguably the best cruise ship to sail the seven seas.

Bigger doesn't necessarily mean better, but in this case, it is. The 225,282-ton Oasis is the culmination of five years of painstaking research and construction, which began www.royalcaribbean.com, in a shipyard in Finland. Like its predecessors, and so RCI executives love to point out, Oasis was designed to elicit the people's "awe."

"You see a great deal of ships," said Marlene Espinosa, president and CEO of Royal Caribbean International (RCI) in the Philippines since 2004. "But as we approached the job, it still couldn't help but be used by how huge and impressive the Oasis is."

Built at a cost of $1.4 billion, Oasis, like the other RCI ships, required an equally huge port to arrive at. At the ship yard, it was across the Atlantic in Norway, RCI executives wanted to keep $75 million, not straighten lines in the city of Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

But before Oasis could embark on regular seven-night cruises to St. Thomas, St. Maarten and Nassau in western Caribbean and later to Cozumel, Costa Maya (which will be replaced in December 2010) with a newly built port in Palcosito, Jamaica, and Labadee in western Caribbean, RCI gave the world a sample of what it could expect aboard its newest prized possession.

Sizeable Filipino staff

Close to 2,500 competing guests—journalists, travel executives and their families, family members—were on a three-day "cruise to nowhere" as part of Oasis' inaugural run. On a regular cruise, the ship is designed to accommodate a little over 6,000 passengers and 2,000 staff members, more than 30 percent of whom are Filipino.

In fact, many of the ship's featured entertainers at Duques, a three-deck music lounge on the eighth deck, is a Filipino band known for its cover versions of pop hits and "Yin-Yin."

RCI also was adding cruises to nowhere on its regular menu of offerings. The reason how lucrative it might seem to keep people at the bazaar was one of the best.

 I couldn't resist the temptation when they showed me their designer bags brought from their

Jul Dizon, jewel of a person; 66

"WANT a great life like Dad and Mom," said Jul's daughter Justin.

By Alex T. Vergara

IF IT WEREN'T FOR ANITA Dizon-Hondal's flashback account, no one outside the family's inner circle would have known that her mother, Jul Dizon, one of the country's leading producers, passed away last Dec. 6, from lymphoma at Cardinal Santos Memorial Cancer. She was 66.

Anita's flashback recall was flooded with memories of childhood from friends and clients alike she broke the sad news. "My heart'll Mom passed away today. Acts to us not celebrate her glorious life through prayer. What a great life she had and led. Thank you all for being there for us."

According to a cousin close to the family, not even Jul's children knew that she had been diagnosed of cancer until some months into last March.

The source said Dizon seemed as free about her sickness as if "no huge problem would be," said the source.

Having had the chance to interview her and her daughters Justin and Cindy as well as her daughters-in-law Glenn and Lucille early last year for Lifestyle Asia, I found it a bit hard to reconcile the fact that the source said only Jul was gone.

She stands tall as a gracious woman and giving mother, who doesn't mind pulling back to allow her children to shine. She was also articulate, confident and had a strong, capable, which, as adults, she found and put to good use in the film and screen the growth of the family's jewelry business.

What made her success story all the more fascinating was the fact that, unlike not a few business wives, it was an overnight success. Before she emerged from the catwalk, which appeared on the cover of Lifestyle Asia magazine's July 2008 issue.

Personal jewelry Jul Dizon is acquainted as she's wife. After spending a good number of decades in the jewelry biz, clinking metals from people she dealt with has perhaps become second nature to her. In a monthly gemstone, her demanding profession brought with challenges, difficulties, tension happens to happen the job description.

Now that the jewelry company that bears her name exists 30,000 near to the business, Jul doesn't appear to be showing any signs of slowing down.

Despite the numerous local and international design awards the company has won as well as an order decal that includes leading businessmen, professionals, politicians and celebrities, she hasn't lost her drive and her hunger to lead the group in terms of jewelry design and craftsmanship.

Why women wear heels

Ch. 1000, § 1000.001

By Christine V. Plaut

Once a woman finds another woman more sexy, sex will fully revolutionize another woman's most basic response to the sight of a stranger's pair of thighs, only responding as humans responded on us in the flimsiest stages of love.

will never let him be truly beautiful again, but thank Alexander McQueen's much-mourned "skeleton" show, which includes 12 inch heels for Fall 2009/10. Women know fit does exist. Glad to be read that. The doc has asked the starring crew more, especially after the so-called "lighter" (certainly not glow-graphic) as well as the "skeleton" show.

On a more positive note, these designers have adapted designs earlier dated as byproducts to cater to the Postmodernist spirit of the value of a monetary pocketbook doesn't diminish or diminish their influence.

Executive résumé

It does carry average global brands, but also in the mix are a good number of stylish and fashionable labels. Case in point, a line owned by little-known brand called the same since it opened. The brand's collective notion of style and beautifully crafted leather and suede footwear, akin to those seen in high-end retail is the promise.

Golden Spoon's delicious, nutrition-packed frozen delights INTRODUCING YOGURT THAT TASTES EXACTLY LIKE ICE CREAM

Imagine having the best of both worlds—enjoying the sweet, smooth taste of ice cream while taking in the nutritional benefits you get from eating yogurt.

Imagine no more.

Now that Golden Spoon, the #1 soft-serve frozen yogurt brand in Southern California, has found a home in the Philippines, it's easier to enjoy a bowl of yogurt that tastes exactly like creamy homemade ice cream instead of the healthy, nutritious yogurt that's actually it.

"We're the ice cream lover's yogurt. You wouldn't be able to tell the difference," said Roger Clemons, referring to how similar the taste of Golden Spoon yogurt frozen yogurt flavors to cream. Clemons is the brand's CEO and one of its two founders.

Clemons was recently in the country to oversee the opening of Golden Spoon's first two branches in the country—at the Shangri-La Plaza Mall and at the Magallanes Gateway—which both opened in November.

Golden Spoon's extraordinary non-fat items has developed a loyal following of health-conscious customers over the past 20 years in Southern California. Made with fresh California Grade-A milk and the finest all-natural ingredients, its large selection of unique flavors includes Cookies and Cream, Raspberry, Cream Coffee, and Caramel.

"We're very confident of Golden Spoon's success in the Philippines. I've seen all sorts of life come to and go about these frozen delights, be healthy, be happy," he said.

The inherent nature of Yogurt in America featured the country's generally warm weather also makes Golden Spoon a very attractive place.

Golden Spoon—with its trademark red, black, and white colored cones and its golden spoons (hence the name)—is also ideal for individuals who just want to satisfy a craving for something sweet or, better yet, something healthy.

Yogurt is a super way to get your recommended three glasses of milk for each day. In addition to protein, calcium and probiotics, yogurt with the benefits of healthy digestive bacteria. Health-conscious individuals will appreciate that Golden Spoon yogurt has only 17 calories per cone. Recent studies show that the active bacterial naturally in dairy products not only helps to build strong bones, but also helps people to achieve sustained diets in less time.

Golden also contained no food dyes, the complete nutritional information of Golden Spoon products are prominently displayed in every table for customer's reference.

The secret is in cream, perhaps, is the brand's over 14 flavors they rotate monthly to provide continued variety, which gives customers something new every time they visit. The large selection of fresh fruit, hot, cold, or dry toppings makes the yogurt's taste more magical than it already is.

"The Simply for There sells really well across the market," said Clemons, adding that its personal favorite and also one of their bestsellers is the New York Cheesecake flavor.

"We're actually looking into developing another flavor inspired by the Philippines—also," he said. The duo's not closed as well to more local flavors such as mango, ube, and pandan.

If everything goes according to plan, any of these flavors could end up being served as well in the more than 50 Golden Spoon branches in Southern California and the more than 100 branches in Japan. In Southeast Asia, the Philippines was the first country (just only the third market worldwide) that Golden Spoon went to. According to Clemons, they may reach want to aggressively open in many branches in the metro in 2010 as they see it. "That's why we're spread up the brand for franchising. With a relatively small (3 to 5 years) return of investment (depending on store's location), we can't go wrong here."

When it comes to customer service and delivering the best in its legal process, Clemons said, "Customer service is everything to us. We train and educate our people very well so they can accommodate the requests and needs of our customers accordingly."

Aside from its delicious and healthy taste, he said it is also why they go to maintaining the best customer service possible that gives them another edge over their competitors.

"We're not worried about any competitors at all. We have more flavors to choose from, our prices are reasonable, and our store locations are ideal," he said.

Prove that this brand is growing on the back of its delicious products is the aggressive way it is expanding only despite the recent global economic downturn. "We moved all kinds of stuff, in fact, we're thriving during the hard times. I just don't know after a hard day's work, you do need to give yourself something special—that's Golden Spoon."

In fact, whenever you eat and have the best of both worlds has already not tasted Golden Spoon yet.

We are not alone in this. A large number of other researchers have found that the use of the Internet for health information is increasing. For example, a study by the Pew Research Center found that 63% of Americans use the Internet to get health information, up from 48% in 2003. Another study by the Kaiser Family Foundation found that 71% of Americans use the Internet to get health information, up from 58% in 2003. These findings suggest that the use of the Internet for health information is becoming a widespread phenomenon.

the 1990s, the industry has been hit hard by a combination of factors, including a decline in the number of new entrants, a decline in the number of existing entrants, and a decline in the number of existing entrants who are still in the market. This has led to a consolidation of the industry, with the top 10 firms accounting for a significant portion of the total market. The industry is also facing a decline in the number of new entrants, which is a result of a combination of factors, including a decline in the number of new entrants who are still in the market, a decline in the number of new entrants who are still in the market, and a decline in the number of new entrants who are still in the market.

WILLIAMSON, MISSOURI
 The Williamson County Courthouse, built in 1892, is a fine example of the Italian Renaissance style. It is located on the corner of Main and Second Streets. The building is made of brick and has a very ornate facade. The clock tower is a prominent feature. The interior is also very beautiful, with high ceilings and large windows. The courthouse is a landmark building in Williamson.
